The Garden State Philharmonic relies on public support to keep music alive at the Jersey Shore and to inspire future generations of audiences and career artists. This is true for maintaining access and affordability regardless of program. Just like the professional MasterWorks Series events require private donations, grant funding AND admissions, so do vital educational programs like the Youth Orchestras Program, which serves hundreds of middle and high school students annually. Through Program Sponsorship, member fees can be kept low and more opportunities for learning and demonstrating be incorporated. The true cost to the Philharmonic for one student to participate in the Youth Orchestra Program is nearly $500, but with continued private support we can keep these fees at $140 or below, and keep admission prices at $12 or under when the participants perform publically.

Therefore, the Philharmonic asks each participating family to help secure at least ONE (1) program ad sponsorship per concert per season. The sponsorship can reflect any of the pre-determined four levels of support. Acknowledgement ads will appear in the next Youth Orchestra Program Book based on the size associated with the level of support. Our next Youth Orchestra Program concert will be held on January 22, 2012. To have your acknowledgement ads and tribute ads appear in that day's Program Book, all commitments MUST be received by January 17th.

Congratulations Vincent! Seven years in the Garden State Youth Orchestras as a violinist. Good Luck at Mordechai State University in the fall!

You might ask, "Who do I know that would want to be a Program Ad Sponsor?" The best place to start is with the entrepreneurs and small business leaders you know. Your family physician, dentist, lawyer, accountant, plumber, electrician or carpenter are the best places to start. Your favorite restaurant, take out place, music store, bank or other store your family frequents would mutually benefit from the exposure gained as a result of being a Program Ad Sponsor. By supporting the professional Garden State Philharmonic and its local Youth Orchestras Program, those who commit gain guaranteed exposure to no less than 750 potential customers through the YOP Program Book alone each time they add their support. Not counting the added thousands when they take advantage of special ad-on rates in the professional orchestra's programs.

For some of the Symphonic Youth Orchestra students, this season will be their final with the Garden State Philharmonic Youth Orchestra. There is no better way for family and friends to wish them good luck and years of musical joy ahead than with a $15 booster line in the program! See the samples at left from last year's parents.

The Garden State Philharmonic is a 501 (c) (3) non-profit organization.
